From the Office of the Chief

By Ronald A. Lawrence

The holiday season ushers in the wet weather, a change to fall colors in our landscape, and chilly temperatures that drive us indoors to stay warm. We enjoy family get-togethers, work celebrations, gift giving, and find a renewed sense of helping others. It often becomes a time for us to reflect on the year past and appreciate those around us, specifically, our friends and family. For most, it is a joyous time of year filled with holiday cheer and warm memories. But there is another element to the holiday season; one not so cheerful. One that is dark and nasty, and can turn an otherwise jubilant memorable holiday season into a dreary and frustrating experience.

What our police professionals often see driving a wedge between holiday reveling and the stark reminder of reality is property crimes; namely burglaries and theft. The holiday season often carries with it an increase in property crime in every community, and we want to work with you to ensure your holiday season is not turned into an unsatisfying memory. Your Citrus Heights Police Department has used technology for many years to aid us in policing our community. With many cutting-edge tools available to us, one we have used to great success is our "Bait Theft Reduction Program." We began the program in 2016, and we saw 35 felony arrests the first year. So far, during 2017, the Bait program has realized over 100 felony arrests. We carefully analyze items that are popular for thieves to steal by researching previous crime reports, and obtain similar items to use as "bait." The bait property is then strategically placed throughout the City to proactively target criminals who steal from our residents and businesses. These items may be anything, but often include things like bicycles, vehicles, trailers, construction equipment, and other items. Of the arrests made during 2017, nearly 80 percent of the suspects arrested were either on probation, parole or Post-Release-Community-Supervision (PRCS), the latter of which was a status created during Governor Browns' Prison Realignment when inmates serving time in prison were released and placed on supervision by Probation in local communities.

Also, over 70 percent of those arrested stealing bait property had a prior felony conviction and over 60 percent had an arrest for a crime of violence or possession of a weapon. Still yet, 76 percent had committed a prior theft-related offense, and over 60 percent had previously been arrested for drug-related criminal activity. The average age of those arrested by the Citrus Heights Police Department for stealing a bait item is 35 years old, and since the inception of the bait program, only six juveniles have been arrested.

But there is a lot you can do to deter theft too. I ask that you constantly lock vehicles and keep valuables secure and out of sight of thieves. Make sure you don't leave valuables outside your home at night and consider a burglar alarm. Join a Neighborhood Watch and ensure proper lighting around your home. Also, please report thefts that occur allowing us to target our resources to the areas affected by criminals. With your help, we can make this holiday season a wonderful cheer, instead of a dreadful nightmare!

Citrus Heights Police Experience Great Success With Bait Theft Reduction Program

The Citrus Heights Police Department's bait theft reduction program has proven to be a highly effective crime-fighting tool aimed at catching thieves in the act. Recognizing an increase in theft-related crimes, the Citrus Heights Police Department has focused our efforts on utilizing technology to innovatively catch the offenders responsible for these crimes. The Bait Program was established in 2016 and resulted in 35 felony bait arrests in its inaugural year. So far during 2017, the Citrus Heights Police Department's Bait Program has resulted in over 100 felony bait arrests.

In order to efficiently and effectively deploy their resources, the Citrus Heights Police Department utilizes a data-driven crime reduction model to police our community. This data is carefully analyzed, and those items that are most commonly stolen by thieves are transformed into bait items. These bait items are strategically placed throughout the city to proactively target criminals who steal from citizens and businesses in our community. The bait items may be bicycles, vehicles, trailers, and construction equipment to just name a few of the possibilities.

Of the more than 100 felony bait arrests in 2017 made by the Citrus Heights Police Department, nearly 80% of the suspects were either on probation, parole, or Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS). Over 70% had a prior felony conviction, and over 60% had an arrest for a crime of violence or possession of a weapon. We found 76% had committed a prior theft-related crime and over 60% had previously been arrested for drug-related criminal activity. The average age of those arrested by the Citrus Heights Police Department for stealing a bait item is 35 years old, and since the inception of the bait program, only six juveniles have been arrested.

As a part of the effort to reduce theft throughout the city, the Citrus Heights Police Department asks that our citizens remain vigilant in locking vehicles and keeping valuables secured and out of sight. A key component to the success of this program is to encourage the community to report thefts that have occurred allowing us to target our resources to the areas affected by criminals the most. As an organization, we are committed to the safety and security of our citizens, and we will continue to implement innovative crime prevention and deterrence strategies throughout the city.
